Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the method of orienting the handle in the two directions in claim 38 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 21-32, and 41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The original specification does not teach the when the arm is in the retracted position, the elongated handgrip being not between the proximal and distal ends of the arm. This is a new matter rejection. It is noted that the Figs. 1 and 2 shows extension/retraction of a different embodiment than the one being claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

4. Claims 21-28, 30-32, and 38-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bellini (WO01/52687), or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Bellini in view of Liang (5464080). Bellini teaches a baggage having a T shaped handle in (the longitudinal portion and the lower horizontal bar form the T shaped handle as claimed). With respect to the retracted position, the handle can be retracted having the handle not between the proximal and distal ends of the arm as claimed. In other words, the handle can be rotated upward even when the arm being in the retracted position.

Regarding claim 38, note the position in Fig. 1 there the handle is perpendicular to the axis of the wheels. Furthermore, it is noted that the rotation of the two axes, each being rotatable about 360 degrees would including this specific position as claimed.

To the degree it is argued that Bellini does not teach a T shaped handle. Liang teaches a T shaped handle. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a T-shaped handle in Bellini as taught by Liang to provide an alternative handle.

5. Claims 33-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bellini in view of either Myoshi or Carrigan, Jr. Bellini meets all claimed limitations except for arm portion being curved between proximal and the distal ends. Myoshi teaches that it is known in the art to provide arm portion being curved between proximal and the distal ends. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide arm portion being curved between proximal and the distal ends in Bellini as taught by Myoshi to provide an alternative handle arrangement and/or to transport the luggage easily.

Art Unit: 3727

Carrigan, Jr. also teaches that it is known in the art to provide arm portion being curved between proximal and the distal ends, i.e., the arms having circular cross section. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide arm portion being curved between proximal and the distal ends in Bellini as taught by Carrigan, Jr. to provide an alternative handle arrangement for retraction/extension.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 09/22/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Noted that the amended claims do not read over Bellini as set forth above. It is noted that in the rotatable handle can be position in the outward position even when the arm are in the retracted position. Note that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

With respect to the position in claim 38, clearly, with the handle be rotatable in two axis, each being rotatable about 360 degrees would including this specific position as claimed. Furthermore, it is noted that in Fig. 1, the handle is perpendicular to the axis of the wheels and substantially horizontal as claimed.

Art Unit: 3727

With respect the handle being curved, it is noted that the term "curved" is broad. Carrigan, Jr. teaches that it is known in the art to provide arms having circular cross section and this cross section would meet the claimed recitation of "curved".

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
